

Nexben: ICHRA in Action

Cost savings for an employer and its employees

CASE STUDY

Offering health care benefits is often seen as a cost of doing business and critical in a competitive marketplace. It also helps attract and retain skilled talent and improve productivity.

Adopting a defined contribution approach does not necessarily mean greater cost shifting or changing the benefits offered to employees. Rather, it is an opportunity to show employees exactly how much money a company will be contributing to their monthly health insurance premiums and offer them choice in how best to spend it – driving cost savings for employers and their employees.

The Nexben Solution

A national* manufacturer, with nearly 300 eligible employees, offered Nexben's ICHRA solution – a defined contribution approach to offering a group health plan. In contrast to the group health plan offered the previous year, the company realized a cost savings of nearly 30%. Their employees also realized an annual cost savings of $737 each, on average a 45% reduction from the previous year.

*Locations: AZ, FL, IA, MN, NC, SC, TX, WA
Source: Nexben, Inc., August 2020

This material is for general information purposes only. This material is not to be considered or taken as legal, tax, benefit, or human resources advice. Regulations change over time and can vary by location and employer size, among other factors. Nexben does not guarantee any form of access, eligibility, or coverage. Consult a licensed broker, human resources certified expert, or attorney for specific guidance. Nexben services are subject to terms and conditions.

Nexben™ is a trademark of Nexben, Inc. T-21_09.01.21 ©2021 Nexben, Inc. All rights reserved.